Letters From the People TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITTURE

" Hold on to The Dower."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITIZEN: SIR: The importance of the coming election and its bearing on the future good or evil of the town of Bloomfield cannot be overestimated. How so-called patriotic citizens, stated to have pride in their town and its best interests, can advocate its being merged into the well-known corrupt city Newark is astounding, when consider it is governed by a Board of Works, the Mayor being merely a figurehead, and therefore any verbal promises he may make impossible to fulfill.

Becoming supplicants at the footstool of the powers that be, miles away, for any improvements, whether it is stone curbing or paying and sewering new streets, when the same work will be done more prior to the meeting of the twentyefficiently, more promptly by the town government, is certainly not local pride. It can be proved by the past history of the town that the cost to the property-owners of any improvement, as compared into the Council Chamber, but obstacles with costs for corresponding work performed by the officials of Newark, is much less, especially when such work would be free from political red tape and graft. Pay taxes to Newark and we can whistle for any improvements, except at a tremendous cost.

The tax rate of Newark has been increasing every year for the last decade, and there is every prospect of its being 2.50 for 1904, or 18 points higher than for 1903, and with the same ratio of increase what will the rate be three years lings were valued pro rate with small hence? And with an exorbitant boldings? assessment for any improvements the outlook certainly is not encouraging to property holders if annexation becomes a fact.

That a well-known member of the annexation clique, indorsing the erection of a $50,000 town hall, entailing, as he said, an increase of one point in the tax rate, should become frightened at the prospect men can be found among them. We are paying the Superintendent of Public Roads $750 per amoun. The Superinterm of years on $90,000 4-percent. bonds, is also remarkable of his time to his charge. We pay to the cent. bonds, is also remarkable of his time to his charge. We pay to the cent. bonds, is also remarkable of his time to his charge. We pay to the cent. bonds, is also remarkable of his time to his charge. We pay to the cent. will not be any more, if as much as is now paid to the Orange Water Company and considering also that we can control the source of supply, with an assured perfectly pure water. It has been stated by citizen that in conference with the Chief Engineer of Newark he was told that if the town was an-nexed the Pequannock water could fice in behalf of the small property owner be diverted from its source, as the contract called for the entire supply to be delivered to Newark with its 300,000 population.

The water plant of the town of Madison is more than self-supporting and there is no reason why Bloomfield's should not he run at

We cannot forget our treatment by the Newark courts when futile efforts were made by certain citizens to have saloon licenses revoked for violation of law when there was unquestioned guilt of the parties, and such treatment will be repeated in other ways. With Newark to manage our saloon business this beautiful suburb will be a sink-hole of multiplied saloons and vice, with the open door and a desecrated Sunday, as is the case in that city now. Let us not forget the past history of the town in this regard and avoid a repetition. Newark is very anxious to get this magnificent suburb within her precincts to receive taxes and give no equivalent, and we object.

In 1902 at a hearing in Trenton before the Senate Committee on Municipal Affairs a prominent gentleman now favoring the annexation project stated it would have a "detrimental and injurious effort upon the town's public schools, "and also claimed that "annexation would prove detrimental to the moral welfare of the town, in that it deprived the people of control of the licensing of saloons," and the same

What's Intitt?

SIR: Some years ago a good story was told of the late Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria. It told how the Prince visited a naval ship and on going into the kitchen found a Scotch cook, who was busy making broth. The Prince curious to know what was fed to the men, inquired what the cook had in the soup, and the Scotchman promptly replied: "There's sabbage intilt, parenipa intlit, sarrots intilt and," "But stop," said, the Prince, "what's intit?" The sook started over again : "Cabbage intilt, paranipa intilt and"- "Yee, yes," said the Prince, breaking in again, "but what's intilt?" . The Scotchman lucisted upon repeating: "Cabbage intilt," etc., while the Prince followed his inquiry, with "But what's intilt," until he found It necessary to leave the kitchen in a hurry to avoid finding that there might be a "leek intilt."

Now, Mr. Editor, I am like the Prince so far as curlosity is concerned on the question of annexation. I am trying to find out "what's intilt." To this sudden charge of front by the much said to be "Beet Citizen," I am atill puzzled over the question of "what's intilt."

We are informed that about a week same men tried to throw the reins of Republican leadership into the hands of a certain individual who takes orders rom them and sees to it that they are promptly carried into effect-but this falled. The next move was to get two of the "best citizens" of Bloomfield back appeared in the way and this was aban-

The next thing to happen was a change in the tax office, which was anticipated beforehand, and the meeting of the twenty-five "beat citizens," which I am informed was originally called for other purposes, was suddenly changed into a call for annexation. It is this circua display of the ringmasters and their wonderful somersault and rapid work as lightning change artists, prompts the loquiry, "What's intlit?" Is it because annexation is the best thing for Bloomfield or is it because a new set of tax assessors will probably change the valuation so that large hold-share pro rate as the small holdings? Is it because this change of valuations would probably reduce the rate of 3 10

ings will be called upon to pay the same

Is it because these "best citizens" of Bloomfield have covered the town with a bonded indebtedness which has taxed small holding up to the point of 21/2 per cent, of the amount of investment, and now want to throw them into Newark with this high valuation, while the large boidings are carrying a valuation which has been paying probably less than 1 to 1½ per cent, of the invest-

That these good citizens are very licitons of the small property solder's tendent is expected to devote the whole best citizens of Bloomfield. Both of these men will probably lose their posttions if we go into Newark. In the case of the Seperintendent I believe he is a perpenter by trade and will be able to turn his hand to that if he gets out of hie job; but what about the Clerk to the School Board? Hard on him.

Taking all these things into considers. tion, the "best citizens" of Bloomfield who pay, they say, $18 a year taxes and send their children to school at a cost of $60 per year to the town. But perbetter yet if the vote of the people should be in favor of keeping the name Bloomfield. They might open their bearte and consent to have their property assessed at the same valuation which is put upon small property, and then maybe the common people will love them so much more. But I fear, however, we have incured their displessure and it would seem as if they wanted to give up their charitable work and turn it over to Newark.

It is also confusing, this rough-shoo Roman charlot race and bareback riding and the long whip of the ringmaster the new loop-the-loop and space jump ing cyclist. This dizzy whith brings us face to face with Barnum's white elephant, while his explanation of the sulmai "Egress" would be a benefit just now, and if the "best citizens" of Bioom-field will give the explanation of "what's intlit" we would understand the show so much the Better. Who do you suppose will be the Tax Assessor for the Seventeenth Ward of Newark?

TAXPAYER.

Two Years Ago and Now. TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITIZEN:

arguments used two years ago against some ulterlor object which these men complete transition? These men who now are in favor of annexation we have always looked up to with respect for their probity and integrity. Yet we must pause to ask them if they have as carefully weighed these matters as they would in their private business. Do they fully realize that a Newark ward assessor would be a very much Newark domain by a narrow 100 more inquiettive person then the mild annered gentlemen, whom we have public buildings, and it will be with a keen eye they will go out searching for ratables. There will be lots of fun in helping to pay for these grand things that Newark must have, and see our own ward just standing still. From the bottom of my heart I wish the people would dismiss this nightmare of annexation from their minds, and be real neighborly with each other, ignore the bosses, whether they be Democratic or Republican, and seek out and find men who, having the best interests of the town at heart, will make good members of the Town Council, and run the affairs of the town economically without fear or favor. We have capable men, and I wish we could have an old-fashi ned town meeting, and all citizens turn their backs upon politics and politicians, and nominate men of the people who will serve the people for the good of the people. One year of such a government, and there would be nothing more heard of annexation.

> Respectfully yours. NON-PARTISAN,

Annexation and Fire Insurance. TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITIZEN:

BIR: While the air is filled with statements and mistatements as to the probable effect that the annexation of our town to Newark will have upon the pockets of its citizens, it might be well for our fellow-townsmen's attention to be called to one feature of their financial future which I have not seen dwelt upon, and which effects not only property-owners, but also nearly every one who has sufficient worldly possessions

That feature is the effect that the change will have upon the eget of one's fire insurance, which, as below noted, is found to be an item of no small account, and particularly to a large class of nonrealty owners, to whom the tax question te of no particular import.

At the present time an organization known as the Newark Fire Insurance Exchange has jurisdiction over the territory embraced within the city limits of Newark in the matter of making rates to apply on fire risks, while certain territory, of which Bloomfield is a part, is governed in that respect by what is known as the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department. These two organizations, while composed of representatives of the same theurange companies, nevertheless have widely different rates on some of the same classes of property in their respective jurisdictions, and, strange as it may seem, the difference does not lie in the direction in which the uninitiated naturally expect to find It-lower rates in the city on account of the more effi clent fire department-but, on the contrary, in exactly the opposite direction, a fact ve y easily verified. For example, the rate promulgated by the New-ark Board on the class known as 'unexposed frame dwellings" is 60 cents per $100 for three years, and on the contents of such risks 70 cente per $100 for the same period, while that on the same classes of risk-both dwelling and household furniture-under the jurisdiction of the Middle Department, of which Bloomfield is a part, is only 40 cente per $100 for the same period.

The effect of annexation we id be the transference of Bloomfield to the control of the Newark Board, and the consequent raising of the cost of insurence on the frame dwelling and bousehold furniture classes of 50 and 75 per cent. respectively above the present cost. This, it should be borne in mind, notwithstanding the more efficient are department in the city of Newark.

These facts are easily verified, and mean a great deal to many of our fellow-citizens who may be favored with the good fortune of owning real estate, and who are proportionately less able to bear such increased expense than their more fortunate neighbors. I trust, Mr. Editor, that you will let them become acquainted with conditions that they are facing, in this respect, so that they, too, may have some interest in the result of the coming election, saide from that interest which we all should have, and that is, civic patriotism.

citizens who are earnestly striving to | 20 decide which is the best course to puraue on election day, to read the annual the Newark city reports for 1902—the last one issued. It will give one an idea way or the other the mooted question, "What is there is it for us?"

Very respectfully, A. E. CRANK.
